

Christoph Hutter - Planning for Return to School – 9 July 2020

In Canada we are proud to have universal health care and look in horror to countries like the US where in a two tiered medical system those who can afford receive medical care. While public schools in Ontario are closed since March, private schools moved their curriculum online and teachers teach in their virtual classrooms every day for the full day. Are we now introducing a two tiered educational system where those who can afford it will receive education while those who cannot afford it see their teachers for fifteen minutes every two weeks (as it was the case with our child)?

Thank you very much and best regards,
Christoph Hutter